

Wisconsin law is fine just the way it is. If a person has stopped doing business with a company there is a reason why and they should not be able to keep contacting you.